‘Working women face greater mental stress than men’

VIJAYAPUR, DHNS

The mental and physical health of working women attain greater importance in the fragile situation of Covid pandemic, opined Akka Mahadevi Women’s University in charge Vice-Chancellor Onkar Kakade.

Speaking after inaugurating a one-day national level webinar on ‘Mental Health & Quality Life’, sponsored by the National Women’s Commission on Thursday, he said, married working women have the pressure of managing the work at home as well as at their workplace.

He stated that such a fact results in great mental and physical stress for working women.

Bengaluru NIMHANS Psychiatrist Prabha Chandra who was the resource person at the webinar said, married working women are facing a great mental and physical stress due to Covid pandemic.

She suggested some tips as to how stress can be managed. She said, whenever working women are in a state of confusion due to great mental stress they can contact the Telehelpline of the NIMHANS (The National Institute of Mental Health and Neuro-Sciences).

New Delhi-based Institution of Human Behaviour & Allied Sciences Psychiatrist Jahanara Gajendragad, who spoke on the occasion, explained the meaning of mental health and mental health and how they have a gender based impact on the health of persons. She opined that working women face greater mental stress than working men.

‘Intervention needed’ Shivamogga Ashok Pai Memorial College Principal Sandhya Kaveri who gave a talk on ‘Psycho-Social Intervention With Working Women’, stressed the necessity of socio-psychic intervention for resolving the problems faced by working women.

Pune Bharati Vidyapeeth former dean B.T. Lawani also spoke.

More than 900 representatives from national and international educational bodies were benefitted by the webinar.

Compensation for lockers

BALLARI DHNS

The District Unit of the CITU took out a protest rally in Ballari on Thursday demanding compensation for the people affected by the Covid-19 induced lockdown.

They further demanded that a policy should be framed for the rehabilitation of the victims, and all the demands of the labourers should be met.

Speaking on the occasion, Centre of Indian Trade Unions (CITU) district general secretary J. Satyababu stated that the State’s economy has suffered a major setback due to the lockdown. The State government should take steps to provide relief to the people affected by the lockdown.

FIVE DAYS LIFE SKILL TRAINING PROGRAMME FOR MSW II AND IV

Youth are being considered the most productive members of society due to their physical and intellectual capabilities. In order to realize their potential appropriately, they need guidance and motivation. Youth these days are facing many challenges such as social, emotional, physical and psychological issues. Cut-throat competition, unemployment, lack of job security, etc. are some of the major concerns for the educated and as a result, they are caught in the mad race.

No one has time for his/her 'self', to develop empathy with surrounding and to have harmony in society. Life Skills Education nowadays is hence, very important, to support and live life better. Thus, the cardinal focus of this workshop is to pay an extraordinary emphasis on developing such skills amongst Students & Budding Professionals as they are the important building blocks for a dynamic citizen, who can cope up with future challenges and survive. According to UNICEF, Life Skills are a behaviour change or behaviour development approach designed to address a balance of three areas: Knowledge, Attitude & Skills.

The world bodies such as UNICEF, UNESCO, and WHO list the ten core Life Skills as:

1. Self-awareness
2. Effective communication
3. Critical thinking
4. Interpersonal relationship
5. Creative thinking
6. Empathy
7. Decision making
8. Coping with stress
9. Problem Solving
10. Coping with emotion

The following broad areas were covered in this five days' workshop.

psychological issues. In this regard this workshop is going to build a positive attitude and behaviours among students.

Dr. S.A.Kazi, inaugurator of the workshop expressed that Life skills are defined as the behaviors used appropriately and responsibly in the management of personal and professional affairs. They are also set of human skills acquired via learning or direct experience that are used to handle problems and questions commonly encountered in day to-day personal and professional life. It is always said that life skills are the core skills each individual must acquire and inculcate internally as well as externally for the betterment of self and others. Life skills, thus, are the means to empower young minds in demanding situations in personal, professional and social life. Adoption of life skills is the key to excellence.

Day – 1 session - 1
Dr. Bhagyashree, Research Scholar, Dept. of Social Work, Central University of Karnataka had explained the format of the training programme, made rules and regulations of the five days workshop. Furthermore, session had started on Self-awareness includes recognition of 'self', our character, our strengths and weaknesses, desires and dislikes. Developing self-awareness can help us to recognize when we are stressed or feel under pressure. It is often a prerequisite to effective communication and interpersonal relations, as well as for developing empathy with others. Also, students were involved in some practical activities.

Day – 1 session – 2:
Empathy: To have a successful relationship with our loved ones and society at large, we need to understand and care about other peoples' needs, desires and feelings. Empathy is the ability to imagine what life is like for another person. Without empathy, our communication with others will amount to one-way traffic. Worst, we will be acting and behaving according to our self-interest and are bound to run into problems. No man is an island, no woman either! We grow up in relationships with many people – parents, brothers and sisters, cousins, uncles and aunts, classmates, friends and neighbors. When we understand ourselves as well as others, we are better prepared to communicate our needs and desires. We will be more equipped to say what we want people to know, present our thoughts and ideas and tackle delicate issues without offending other people. At the same time, we will be able to elicit support from others, and win their understanding. Empathy can help us to accept others, who may be very different from ourselves. This can improve social interactions, especially, in situations of ethnic or cultural diversity. Empathy can also help to encourage nurturing behaviour towards people in need of care and assistance, or tolerance, as is the case with AIDS sufferers, or people with mental disorders, who may be stigmatized and ostracized by the very people they depend upon for support.

REGISTRAR
KARNATAKA STATE AKKAMAHADEVI WOMEN'S UNIVERSITY, VIJAYAPURA.

Day – 2 Session – 3: Critical thinking: Critical thinking is an ability to analyze information and experiences in an objective manner. Critical thinking can contribute to health by helping us to recognize and assess the factors that influence attitudes and behaviour, such as values, peer pressure and the media. In our day to-day life, we have to think critically before we speak or do anything. If we spurt out something or do something without thinking, it would often land us in trouble. In case you speak sarcastically and hurt the feelings of your friends, you are likely to lose them as friends. If you join a course of study without thinking about its utility, scope, and nature, you may have to drop out of it in a short while. As a result, you will lose not only a lot of money, but also your precious time and energy. Hence critical thinking is important and we need to learn it. We need to know what it is and practice a lot to be proficient in it. In the end of the session students were participated in activities which is related to critical thinking.

Day – 2 session – 4: Creative thinking: Creative thinking is a novel way of seeing or doing things that is characteristic of four components – fluency (generating new ideas), flexibility (shifting perspective easily), originality (conceiving of something new), and elaboration (building on other ideas). Creative thinking refers to the ability to produce something novel, useful, and unique. It involves the ability to think about something in novel and unusual ways and come up with unique solutions to problems. Fluency, flexibility, originality, and elaboration are the main characteristics of creativity. The characteristic of fluency involves generation of many ideas. Flexibility involves the ability to shift perspectives easily. While the characteristic of originality stands for conceiving something new, elaboration refers to building of many ideas. Creativity also refers to challenge accepted ideas and ways of doing things in order to find new solutions or concepts. In the end of the session students were participated in activities which is related to creative thinking.

Day – 3 Session – 5

Decision making: Decision making helps us to deal constructively with decisions about our lives. This can have consequences for health. It can teach people how to actively make decisions about their actions in relation to healthy assessment of different options and, what effects these different decisions are likely to have. For example, most of the adolescents after completion of secondary education will face difficulty in taking decisions on opting further stream of courses. In that case, as teachers, you could help them find their area of interest and give various career options. Decision-making, as the above steps reveal, involves choosing a course of action from among the several well defined and frequently competing alternatives after due deliberations. Before arriving at the proper option you have to weigh the cost and benefits of various outcomes. In the end of the session students were participated in activities which is related to decision making.

Day – 3 Session – 6

Problem solving: Problem solving helps us to deal constructively with problems in our lives. Significant problems that are left unresolved can cause mental stress and give rise to accompanying physical strain. Problem-solving, like decision-making, is a life skill that is as important as and perhaps more important than decision making. Problems are situations that are not easy to surmount. Problems, be they big or small, have to be faced and overcome. In case we fail, life would come to a standstill, goals would remain unaccomplished, and the person concerned will be filled with anxiety and worry. Problems can immobilize and render us helpless. Unless we tackle them at the proper time, they will render us handicapped. If we allow problems to get the better of us, they will slow down our overall growth and development. Our happiness and prosperity would show up a downward trend ultimately resulting in a degrading downfall. Finally, few decision making activities were conducted for students.

Day - 4 Session - 7

Effective Communication:

Nothing can make as much of a dramatic effect on our personal and school life as speaking well. The impression you make on others mostly depends on the way you speak-the pitch, expressiveness, and clarity of your voice. Any message that involves the face-to-face mode such as conversation consists of a number of components such as tone, words and body language. Only when all the components are appropriately integrated, effective communication is possible. When you are angry, for example, you have to make your tone of voice harsh, volume loud, eye-contact direct, and posture rigid. Conversely, when you speak to your friends, your tone of voice should be warm, volume easy on the ears, eye contact direct yet unobtrusive, facial expression smiling, and posture relaxed.

VIJAYAPURA.

Day – 4 Session – 8 Interpersonal Relationships: Interpersonal relationship is yet another life-skill that helps us get along smoothly with our peers. These skills are techniques that help us relate to others. They tell you what you should and what you should not do in your dealing with your friends. In short, they highlight the mutual give and take in any relationships. The mutual give and take is an important feature of successful interpersonal interaction. These skills are learned. Family, school, neighborhood are the main places that give scope for learning these skills. You learned most of them through observation and some from consequences.

Day – 5 Session – 09 Coping with stress: Coping with stress means recognizing the sources of stress in our lives, recognizing how this affects us, and acting in ways that help us control our levels of stress, by changing our environment or lifestyle and learning how to relax.

Day – 5 Session – 10: Coping with emotions: Coping with emotions means involving recognizing emotions within us and others, being aware of how emotions influence behaviour and being able to respond to emotions appropriately. Intense emotions like anger or sadness can have negative effects on our health if we do not respond appropriately.

Dr. G. B. Sonar, Chairman, Department of Social Work, KSAWU, Vijayapura has delivered presidential remarks of the five days workshop. Sir mentioned that life skills are the essential part for every individual. That too in students' growth it plays a significant role. This should not be end here itself. These skills need to be incorporated by every students and need to attempt best and desired place in their life.

Awareness of trends and technology:

Technology trend awareness as a knowledge and skill refers to being mindful of the technology that is recently becoming popular. It also encompasses one's ability to recognize and understand the usefulness of any recent technology for the success of the student. In bringing the excellence to the students, the Academic and Support systems of the college consistently organize various events such as workshops, webinars/seminars. Experts are invited to share their best experience and knowledge in modern developments.

The programme was organized with collaboration of department of Social Work, Central University of Karnataka. The Resource person Dr. Chandrashekar has mentioned in his speech that Throughout the globe, consumption, trade and production of illegal substances and other related problems are increasing every day, and the average age of consumers has declined. Youth substance use and addiction are a very important community health problem that is spreading at high speed around the globe. This public health problem not only affects the user but also their family, community, society, country and the world. This is a critical period for developmental outcomes. Besides experimentation and initiation of substance use that often occurs during this time.
